

Special Delivery

I teach a class of teenage girls who are excited about studying Special Delivery. In fact, their enthusiasm is catching—several of our adult women are joining our class. Please send six more books. I love the added benefit of our girls bonding with ladies of all ages! Could this be the atmosphere of the old-fashioned quilting bee? Everyone loves to receive encouraging notes—we are enjoying the process of learning to write them.

I am so excited about this book! My mind is spinning about how Special Delivery could be used not only locally, but in Ukraine, Italy, Colombia, and the preachers' school in Panama. It is a worthy goal—these are places where people often cannot afford postage but I think they could find a way to adapt the ideas, such as hand-written and hand-delivered notes. It gives me lots to think and pray about!

Thank you for the reminder of the great need for encouragement! When I got my copy of Special Delivery, I could not put it down—I read until 2:00 A.M. This is the best "how-to" book that I have seen for Christian women. I love the examples of letters in the section openings; they prove the lifetime impact of a thoughtful letter. Now when I have a blank note to fill with my thoughts, I can go the samples in "For Your Notes." These give me a start! I feel equipped to write to those who are lost, as well as those who are grieved or rejoicing. If my house were on fire, Special Delivery is one of the few books, other than my Bible, that I would grab.

I don't know when I have had such positive response to a class! The junior and senior ladies have joined us for this study of Special Delivery. One of our young mothers volunteered to print a sheet each week with names and addresses of people we could write, including those in prison and in the military. She lists relatives of our members who are sick and live out of town, young people who have received recognition at school, and upcoming events such as weddings and births. We don't have to wonder, "Who should I write?" We found out that our missionaries love to get letters that include pictures or newspaper clippings of local events, as well as excerpts from church bulletins. They like local news about the people they know.

We always go over the memory verse and discuss its context and read the other scriptures that go along with the lesson.

The study is making an impact! It is so practical and does so much to increase our awareness of how we can reach out to others with the written word. I have always sent cards and notes, but I have probably doubled my volume. The response has been amazing. Thank you so much for preparing Special Delivery. I appreciate your positive influence through your writing, teaching, and also by your example. May God bless you!
